Announcement

The complete book, Ye Atte Wode Annals, has about 100 pages, covering at least five generations, if known, of Atwood descendents of Philip, John, Henry, Stephen and two Thomases, early colonists in New England; also Henry Wood of Leyden, the Astwoods, James and John, and Mary Bradford descendents of Mary, daughter of John Wood, alias Atwood; also many real photographs of English homes, etc., of the Surrey Atwoods, mounted on heavy, dark-brown pages, with dull yellow title-labels; the whole in a loose leaf binder, so new pages can be added as issued. Prices made before publication did not include cost of distribution, nor are we able to secure as low prices on photo work, etc.

There are plenty of printed pages and covers on hand and we can send, prepaid, these editions at prices appended:

D. All printed pages, cuts, etc., at $6.40.

E. Same with 10 photos, map of part of Surrey; "Hooley House," 1203; Wood Place, 1278; Coulsdon Court, 1434; Church of St. Martin; Sanderstead Court, Entrance; Sanderstead Church; Court Farm House, 1582; Lych Gate, and, Entrance of Sanderstead Church, $9.90.

F. Same as E, but with 10 more photos: Coulsdan Church, and, Church Yard; Sanderstead Court, three views; Coat of Arms, double view; Sanderstead Rectory, Smithy, and Post Office; Tombs and south side of Sanderstead Church. $13.40.

Each of these carries privilege of securing any new pages published, at practically cost of mailing.

Correspondence solicited, but THESE prices supercede any given in any "literature" which may be sent you.

Henry Wood, of Middleboro, Ancestry and Some Descendants, is in preparation; will be new and as nearly complete as many years of research will make possible. Price $6.00.

---

Atwoods of the Essex Line will cover many descendents of Thomas Atwood of Connecticut, but some lines stop with 5th or 6th generation. In preparation but no price set as yet.

E. F. Atwood, Manager,

Sisseton, S. Dak.

Jan. 1, 1930.

In 1924 Mr. Norton of Sanderstead Court kindly sent me several photographs, including two of the coat of arms, taken at close range when shadows brought out the detail. C. G. Attwood, 78 Bellevue St., Boston 32, made drawings from these, replacing the original stone work by an oak wreath, to be colored in pale autumn tints. You will notice the field itself is a conventional acorn. This is red. The lion is silver, as is crest and edge of field. The three acorns are golden, with base of crest red and gold. The hand itself may be flesh color or, black as if in armor. We have tried name scroll various ways, black on silver is as plain as any. The date tabs may be omitted, or last date changed to suit.

We have a few heavy sheets with this coat of arms in outline only, suitable for coloring, made by F. R. Atwood, Chicago, copy mailed for 85 cents. Or

Mr. Attwood will color one for you, in artist's colors, details to your order, for $4.85. These sheets are about 8 1-2 by 11 and may be mounted on a larger page for framing.

Orders may be sent to either E. F. Atwood, Sisseton, S. D., or C. G. Attwood.

These arms, with field sown with golden acorns, were those used by Attwood, whose family existed in Saxon times; with six acorns were in use in early Norman times. Crests are various, our branch, of County Surrey, using "cubit arm and battle axe, proper." Gloucestershire Atwoods used demi lady with golden scales and balances.

Essex, Devon and some other families of Atwood are entirely distinct, judging by arms used.

—E. F. A.

Foreword

The Atwood Family, 1888, from the collection of Charles Atwood, has been of great use as a foundation for further research and contains but few errors. English probates and Chancery Bills and Replies have made some English histories incorrect, however.

The church records of Groveland show other children of John 3 Atwood, while other lines of descendents come from family records and old letters, as well as research by Elvira, Gilbert and Luther Atwood.

No attempt is made to include descendents in the female lines, beyond children of "Atwood Girls," and, not all lines of male descendents, especially in N. H., are known to me.

The cuts here used are mostly from "The Atwood Family."

The author is of descent, by two lines, from John Wood, alias Atwood, of Plymouth; thru Mary 2 Bradford as well as Nathaniel 2. It is fairly well established that Harman of Boston was brother of John, Henry and Stephen, and, no doubt, was the oldest. All were nephews of Mr. John Atwood, who perhaps married Ann Crowe, rather than Ann Lee.

The author no longer sees to read, hence index is practically impossible. The style of book is necessary because of lack of means, and, it is earnestly hoped, will lead to a more pretentious volume, eventually.

I have never been able to find children of the daughters of John 2, nor do we know history of Sarah 2. There probably seldom is a complete genealogy, and, I will be pleased to be told of any errors and, more especially, of additions, which will at least be published in genealogical periodicals.

As descendents of Philip Atwood and of Thomas Atwood of Ipswich were sometimes in same or adjoining towns, where Harman's descendents lived, these are included, on separate pages.

Sincerely,

Elijah Francis Atwood,
Sisseton, S. Dak.

CHAPTER II

The first part of the chapter is devoted to a general discussion of the various methods of determining the relative positions of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

The second part of the chapter is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the absolute positions of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

The third part of the chapter is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the proper motion of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

The fourth part of the chapter is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the parallax of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

The fifth part of the chapter is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the radial velocity of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

The sixth part of the chapter is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the transverse velocity of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

The seventh part of the chapter is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the distance of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

The eighth part of the chapter is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the age of the stars. It is shown that the most accurate method is that of measuring the angles between the stars, and that this can be done by means of a micrometer screw.

EXPLANATION

Numbers.—Each line has its letter; B is for Thomas, of Ipswich (from Bristol, Eng.); E, Thomas of Ct., (from Co. Essex, Eng.); H, Harman; J, John; P, Philip, S, Stephen; W. Henry Wood. J5 is 5th child of John; J51 is first child of that child. Each unit represents a generation. Hence 10, 11, 12, become x0, x1, x2, so a number is a sort of index. If children are numbered merely 1, 2, 3, prefix parent's number and you have whole index number. In later generations, I omit early part of numbers. In any number, drop last unit (and x, if it preceeds that unit), and have parent's number.

Dates.—The first date after a name is that of birth, second date divided from first by a dash, is death date. In a few cases of death same year as birth, the year is not repeated. Other dates have an abbreviation before them.

Abbreviations.—b. equals born; d., died; m., married; m. int., or int., intention to marry (required by law once); bpt., baptized; G. S., grave stone inscription; ch., children; ch. rec., church record; Rev. is usually soldier of the Revolution, if time is wrong, it means a clergyman; dau., daughter; g. f., grandfather.

Parentheses.—One can omit all in a parenthesis, when remainder belongs together; in reading ancestry of the person married, this idea may clarify data.

Under parent, all children are given, usually with marriage of each. Further along, usually in order of seniority of their respective generations, one finds child's number again, often the first statements are concerning the person married and followed by their children, in turn, usually, the group of parents and children is preceeded and followed by a wider space between lines. Numbers are usually in order of their apparent size or value. In a few cases, units for children may be 1, 3, 45, 8, indicating possibility of other naturally be found.

Location.—Once a town is named, usually that family were of that town until removal is mentioned, tho several generations may have passed. Sometimes we do not know, and if more recently, do not always give location.

Probate is always in the County in which the person resided, with often only the town given. Grave stones, same. Church records are naturally of the Congregational church and of town of that family, if not named otherwise.

Reference to sources is usually not given, unless unusual, or in connection with an item in dispute or perhaps in print and really an error there.

It is often necessary to look at parent's surname to be sure of child's last name, tho most are Atwood.

It might be well to mark all numbers in your line of descent, once you find them.

The blank pages are for carrying forward your line from where book leaves off, and for your family record. You can easily add other pages 7 x 10 if you wish to write more yet.

Where no doubt is expressed, the items are accepted or fully proved. But where doubt is expressed, the "fact" may be morally proved, or may be the best guess from data known.

Part I is paged 1, 3, 5, for photos on alternating pages, up to 31, then consecutively—contains English History and John Line.

Part II gives Philip Line and Henry Wood Line, omitting most Woods. Astwood is added here.

Part III is Stephen Line; Part IV contains Harman Line, with John, son of James 3. following.

Part V contains first, what I have of the line of Thomas of Ipswich; then Part Six the line of Thomas of Wethersfield, with only lines from Ezekiel 4 carried forward, as no more was reported when this was written.

English History

The first mention I find of the name Attwood is of an "ancient family" at Wynolwerley," Worcestershire. Indeed, legend says this family was originally of Gael-Brython stock. When armorial bearing came into use, this family took a red field, sown with golden acorns and bearing a silver rampant lion. These arms, with often a variation in the number of acorns, are to be found in several other English counties. In Suffolk, the acorns are six; in Surrey, three.

I find at least five other families with landed estates, named Atwood, whose arms show independent origin. But every Attwood in encyclopedias and histories at hand, who were of note as mathematicians, composers, lawyers, members of Parliament and professors in English Universities, are of a stock whose arms show them to trace from the family at Wolverley. More than half the English Attwood yeomanry were of this stock.

A. D. 1203, one Peter de Wyckhurst bought outright from the Abbey of Chertsey, the 40 acre Estate in Coulsdon Parish, County Surrey, now known as Hooley House. Wick means dwelling and hurst is a wooded knoll, so Peter may well have been of "Wood House," and perhaps from Suffolk.

The owner of so small an estate would not naturally make much of a mark in history and we would not know his successor, except that William Attewode, in 1278, signed a surety bond, as a yeoman of this parish.

This is the first appearance of this surname in Surrey. The very next year finds Peter Atte Wode and wife Alice suing to record title to a 220 acre tract nearby, which is known today as Wood Place. Peter doubtless lived at Hooley House, for in 1313, he had the buildings and part of the land of Wood Place leased to one Roger de Bosco, or de Wood.

In 1318 William Atte Wode, wife Juliana almost surely son of the second Peter, sued to record title to lands in Breckenham, a few miles to the northeast. By 1341 Sir William Atwood was Captain of the King's Guard and, on duty at Westminster Palace, where Parliament was sitting, stopped the Archbishop of Canterbury, because the latter insisted on the admission of a following of his partisans, not members. The Archbishop was a member, but the King commended Sir William.

Two of Sir William's sons were Sergeants at Arms to the King. By 1345, the King had enrolled a vast army and invaded France. I believe a third son, Geoffrey, was also of this army and fell at the Battle of Crecy. I know Richard, William and Sir William were in this war. Sir William almost certainly fell in one of the earlier actions. Read any large history and note the loot taken from the French cities. Perhaps Peter Atte Woode was also a soldier here, for he became a man of vast wealth, probably in part through inheritance.

Sergeant-at-Arms William was living in 1360; Geoffrey's estate of Hooley House was made to pay a fine because purchased by an ancestor, without first asking leave of the king, a sort of ex post facto scheme of the king to raise money.

Then, also 1346, Peter Atte Wode, wife Lawrance, sued to record title to a wide acreage in Surrey, including lands in Sanderstead Parish; the History of Sanderstead, by Gower, says Peter Atwood paid a fine on Sanderstead Manor in 1346; the author used papers of the then owner of the manor. But he covered too much territory.

When Ethelfleda, Queen of King Edgar, gave Sanderstead Manor to the Abbey of Hyde, it contained 18 hides or farms, but by the time of the Domesday Survey, they had parted with 13 hides. What Peter bought was the 13 hides not including the church and village. But Peter continued to live at Wood Place, being near to his new possessions, for in 1359, he was licensed by his bishop to maintain a chapel of his own at Wood Place. This Peter was a close associate of William of Wickham; they were Forest Wardens together. Peter was Clerk to William as Justice in Eyre; and they were King's Commissioners together in rebuilding old Windsor Castle. But Wickham had many other interests, among other things becoming Bishop of Winchester and securing control of the lands of the Abbey of Hyde. The Britannica credits Wickham with work done by Peter at Windsor, for we find (Rotolorum) com-

The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a new drug on the treatment of patients with a specific condition. The study was conducted over a period of six months, during which time 100 patients were enrolled in the trial. The patients were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group received the standard treatment, while the experimental group received the new drug. The results of the study showed that the new drug was significantly more effective than the standard treatment in treating the condition. The patients in the experimental group showed a faster rate of improvement and a higher percentage of patients achieved a complete remission of the condition. These findings suggest that the new drug may be a valuable addition to the treatment options available for this condition.

The study was conducted in a controlled environment, and the results were statistically significant. The new drug was found to be safe and effective, with no serious side effects reported. The patients in the experimental group were monitored closely throughout the study, and any adverse effects were promptly addressed. The results of the study were consistent across all subgroups, including patients of different ages and genders. These findings provide strong evidence for the efficacy of the new drug in treating the condition. Further studies are needed to confirm these results and to determine the optimal dosage and duration of treatment for the new drug.

The study was funded by a grant from the National Institutes of Health. The authors have no conflicts of interest. The results of the study are presented in the following table. The table shows the number of patients in each group who achieved a complete remission of the condition, as well as the number of patients who experienced side effects. The results show that the new drug was significantly more effective than the standard treatment, with a higher percentage of patients achieving a complete remission and a lower percentage of patients experiencing side effects.

mission to Peter alone, which seems to have been overlooked. Perhaps Wickham was influential in this as he had become Chancellor of the Exchequer. Perhaps Peter let William have the honor and in exchange got a lease in perpetuity of the Church part of Sanderstead Manor, for we can find no record of when the Atwoods got this, yet they had it about this time.

Next we find a Peter with wife Pentronilla coming into possession of Guildford Manor, far to the south-east in Surrey, and being called as a member of Parliament in 1384. In 1434 John Atte Wode, wife Isabella, leased Coulsdon Manor for 20 years, as a suitable headquarters for his wide holdings near by. I judge that during this 20 years he built the first Sanderstead Court, though Peter had built the church there about 1380, according to church legend the lower part of the present tower being his, and some of the material used in the entrance, including the crowned heads. The church was rebuilt, enlarged and its orientation changed in 1830. (Under the floor were many bones of those of the families of former owners and those were simply covered where they lay with cement.)

John was "Knight of the Shire" in 1459, which means he was called to Parliament. This Parliament deposed King Henry VI.

We find nothing of the next John until his death in 1525, leaving a will made just before his death. I hardly think you will find any will in existence that shows so queer a thing, for he had four sons that were named John. However the will of his wife, Denes, made five years later, shows that one John was called Hewson and she names a Richard not in the other will.

John the Elder evidently had estate and inherited quite a flock of sheep at Woodmanstone, where we find the will of a John Atwood several years later, (1529) with some five children not named. (Peter 1346 bought land, Woodmanstone.) Henry got Wadden manor, in Croyden Parish. John Hewson got Sanderstead Manor. John (Richard) seems to have had only personal property. The next two were not yet 20; Edward got the Beckenham lands (See Sir William) and John the Younger got the lands and buildings at Coulsdon. I think this was the family possessions for centuries, and help to prove the line of descent. But we are only concerned with him of Sanderstead. Agnes, daughter of John and Denes Atwood married John Ownstead, Sr. and had John, Ann, who became Mrs. Knapp, and Joyce, Mrs. Holloway. It is likely that John Hewson Atwood became keeper of the King's Falcons, John Ownstead was Sergeant of the Queen's Carriages, under Elizabeth.

Henry VIII confiscated the church lands far and wide, his sweeping orders took the church part of Sanderstead, which he gave by letters patent to one of the Greshams, in 1539, as Sanderstead Manor, though we now know that the Atwoods remained undisturbed in possession of most of the manor, with country headquarters at Court Farm, while they lived in London most of the year, in the parish of St. Martin of the Fields.

There was much confusion in use of name Wood and Atwood all through this period; indeed, it did not cease in America until some time after the year 1700. He of 1525, signed John Wood, his wife wrote, both he and she were Atwood.

John Hewson settled certain Sanderstead Manor lands on his youngest son Thomas, who died in 1569; Robart Atwood died in 1568. John (Hewson) Wood died in St. Martin's, 1562, while Margaret had died in 1558. A Chancery suit includes statement that Court Roll in 1547 show Nicholas Atwood to have then been the heir of Sanderstead Manor. Yet it was not until 1592 that John Ownstead perfected his purchase from the Greshams of the church part.

John Ownstead had married twice; Jean Oliph, heiress of her father, a Knight and, after her death, Margaret, widow of the rich London merchant, Simon Lawrence. He thus came into possession of much wealth, but had no children, so he willed his part of Sanderstead Manor and estate at Warlingham, to his cousin Harman, eldest son and heir of Nicholas Wood, or Atwood. This Harman left it to his son Harman, who left it to his sister Olive, who built the Rectory. Harman 2d either rebuilt the whole Sanderstead Court by 1676, or at least built the entire south part. The estate then reverted to the children of the elder John, son of Harman 1st, for Harman had two sons named John as also two brothers called John. So George Atwood came next into possession, succeeded by his son John, who died childless in 1761. Then the estate went to Mary (Atwood) Wigsell's heirs. It was Atwood Wigsell, in 1795, who was the last male owner with Atwood blood. Then the estate went to a cousin who had no Atwood blood, really named Taylor, but who took the name Atwood Wiggell. Next heir was his sister, a Mrs. Arkwright. Today, the old estate has but 100 acres about the old Manor House, the rest of the original 3000 acres being cut up in small pieces for the villas of a London suburb. The ancient bridle paths of even 20 years ago, among the leafy woods, are gone and the winding country roads and lanes have given place to paved boulevards and the ceaseless spread of a mightier London.

Sic transit gloria mundi! A few years more and even the pictures possible today might have been lost to us forever.

It is related that a Harman befriended Tyndall while he was translating the Bible into English; and, that two of the ladies Harman, attached to the court of Henry VIII, were at one time in grave danger for the expression of their religious views. Rev Peter Harman was the priest at Sanderstead in the time of John and Denes. When we recall that preference was given to relatives in church appointments, we may suspect there may have been an earlier Atwood-Harman marriage. St. Martin's has the names of many Harmans in the parish register. James Harman, from county Oxon, was barber to Henry VIII. Some of you may have seen the Harman "arms" quartered with the Atwood arms, but you must excuse me from having any use for them. Dickens calls Henry a blot of blood and grease on English history; these so-called arms were barber tools and the sign of Venus. Real arms were granted for service in the field or to distinguish the estate of the owner when in military array. The arms of a barber is a travesty, but there may be other arms from an earlier estate.

Nicholas Atwood, or Wood, was born before 1539, hence probably at Sanderstead Court. His brass relates that he served Queen Elizabeth after the second year of her reign. His position was undoubtedly that of Assistant Sergeant of the Queen's Carriages, with his cousin, John Ownstead as Sergeant.

Jan. 30, 1569, at St. Martin's he married Olive Harman, 1548--1603, daughter and heiress of James Harman. Most of their children were baptized at St. Martin's but John and Derick, "gemelli," Feb. 4, 1582, are on the parish register of Gatton and Sanderstead. When in the country, they resided at Court Farm and here one night when roads were especially bad and the Queen returning from one of her trips, she spent the night at Court Farm. The Greshams held the Court itself but were Catholic, so Elizabeth preferred to stop with Nicholas.

Nicholas died May 10, 1586, in Sanderstead and was buried in St. Martin's, May 14, according to the two parish registers, though his brass says he was buried May 12, in Sanderstead Church, evidently a guess of his grandson, Harman 2d.

Olive married second in 1590, at St. Martin's, William Marleville, whose probate we find the next year. Her monument in Elstree Church, Hertfordshire, names her Atwood children and shows she married third, John Buck and had a son Oliffe.

Children of Nicholas and Olive were:

Harman, 1570—1653, married first, Elizabeth, daughter of Simon Lawrence and had John, Owentead, Olive and Anna; Elizabeth died 1604 and he married Joan King and had Susan, King, Harman, Thomas, Olive and John. Joan died 1640 and his will was proved by his widow Joan in 1653.

Oliver, 1572, died by 1686.

Alice was the third child, dates not found; her younger brother was John Wood, leather seller in London; William Mullins' will, 1621, shows forty pounds in the hands of Goodman Wood, and, that Mullins dealt in boots, shoes, etc., and I suspect Alice Atwood of having been the wife of William Mullins, who with his wife Alice came on the Mayflower and died 1620-21.

Susan, 1675, was Mrs. Urmston by 1622.

Johannes, 1676—1644, married Ann Lee; had no children at death. Became a merchant in the old sense; among financial backers were Robert Cole, James Bunce, John Crow, William Friend, Elizabeth Browne, and John Buck. He probably was in jail for debt at one time and in 1635-6, came to Plymouth, where he is earlier of record because of business dealings with John Doane. It seems possible that William Crowe, who eventually inherited John Atwood's property, was a son of the above John Crowe and his mother may have been a Lee. This John Atwood has many pages in Bradford's History. It is at least a coincidence that his younger brother,

IN 1880

Before Ivy Covered Tablet

John Wood, alias Atwood, the leather seller, at one time was trustee for Henry Sewell of Newbury, New England and in the settlement part of the property went to John Herbert, and, that William Crowe's sister married a John Herbert.

Nicholas, evidently born next, died in 1602.

Thomas, born 1579, was living 1643, evidently unmarried.

Jacobus (James), born 1580 was evidently living 1603, and not living nor had heirs, by 1643.

Johanem and Derick, born 1582; Derick died 1583.

Richard, born 1584, died at Elstree, about 1603-4.

Johanem was our leather seller John, for in 1631, he sued his brother Harman for lands their father Nicholas had settled on his youngest son, Richard. The latter had died, so John, now being youngest son, saw a chance for himself. Whence evidently comes the various Atwood traditions of the American ancestor being disinherited, or having best right to estate in England but never claiming it.

John Wood married Joan Coleson in St. Martin's July 25, 1612 and two children were baptized at St. Martin's; Harman, Oct. 3, 1613 and John, Dec. 24, 1614. I think they then moved to Chancery Lane, London. There is absolutely no doubt that Stephen was brother of these, and but little doubt of Henry.

Children of Harman 1st of Sanderstead:

John married Joan Bartlett and had Harman and Mark before the Sutton register was begun; Joane, 1639; John, 1644; and George, 1652—1722, latter succeeding to Sanderstead. George had wife Elizabeth and had eight children the only one to marry was Mary, 1686—1714, to Nicholas Wigsell. Her son, Atwood Wigsell succeeded his uncle John, 1687—1761.

Ownstead was living 1624, died by 1643.

Olive, 1602, died 1603.

Anna, 1604, living 1653, not married.

Susannah, 1606—1659, unmarried.

King, 1606—1674, wife Elizabeth Brook; had Susan 1639, married Joseph Till; Harman, 1641, had son Harman who died by 1680; and Joane, married Rev. John Sheppard; King was Rector of Sanderstead for years.

Harman, 1608—1676, heir of his father; never married.

Thomas, 1610—1659, had wife Joane and children; Susan, 1639; Thomas, 1641; and Sarah, 1642.

Olive, 1613—1681, built Rectory.

John again, 1615—1675, unmarried.

Books differ; the above data of Harman of Sanderstead and descendants is from parish records, then probates.

Philip Atwood came from London, 1635, aged 15, as proved by two of his depositions in middle life. He was joined at Bradford by descendants of Harman of Boston and may have been a cousin. Harry Wood, Sanderstead parish, had daughter Phyllia in 1616. But I have found no Philip in the Sanderstead kinship, while there are several in the family at Bristol, England.

JOHN WOODE, of Sanderstead, Co. Surrey, Yeoman.

(P. C. C. 36 Bodfelde, 31 July, 1525, proved 5 Sept. 1525. This is from Somerset House, as it involves property in more than one county. Abstract only).

To mother church of Winchester.....To high altar church of Sanderstead..... To high altar church of Croydon, for tithes forgotten..... To Brotherhood of Jesus, mass of Croydon..... Usual bequests for masses for soul.

To wife DENYS.....

To JOHN, my third sonne..... To JOHN, my eldest sonne, sheep at Woodmanstone (Wodemersthorpe) To JOHN my fourth sonne, sheep at Woodmanstone. To JOHN, my youngest sonne, sheep at Waddon, at age of twenty years. To EDWARD, my sonne, at twenty years, codicil gives him land at Beckenham, Kent. To HENRY, my sonne, lease of Waddon Manor, Croydon Parish. To AGNES, my daughter,..... To JOHN, my third sonne and HENRY, my sonne, sheep at Norbury.

To JOHN, my third sonne, my MANOR at SANDERSTEAD.

To JOHN, my younger sonne, messuage (Buildings and land) Coulsdon, Co. Surrey. To HENRY, my sonne, residue; executor, with John Lambard and John Ownsted, Co-Executors.

Overseer, Nicholas Lye.

JOHN ATWOOD of Wodemersthorpe, Surrey, (P. C. C. 9 Jankyn, 5 June 1529, proved 9 July 1529). To be buried in church of St. Peter, Woodmanstone. Bequests to mother church, Winchester. Forgotten tithes. High altars. Priests to sing "trigntall of masses."

To my five children, six sheep each. Richard Stanton, supervisor. To WIFE JULIAN, residue, executor. Witnesses, Wm. Wells, Anthony Traytill, Richard Warner, Thomas Indorne, husbandmen.

(Note. As Peter Atte Wode had estate at Wodemersthorpe, I think this estate was settled on this John by his father during the latter's lifetime, hence the passing of Sanderstead to he whom I regard as the third son, Henry probably being oldest. I think English law would give Woodmanstone estate to eldest son of Julian and John, unless a "settlement," agreed to by that son, had been made earlier).

HARMAN ATWOOD (P. C. C. 371 AYLETT). 6 July, 1642; proved 5 Feb. 1654. No wife named and two wives were dead; son King, executor; but, 1654, widow Joan Atwood proved will. We had this will scanned twice by a competent searcher in Somerset House, as there were evident errors in some former reports.

Describes himself as of Sanderstead, Co. Surrey, Gent. To church of Sanderstead. To poor of S. To poor of Warlingham and Chelsham.
To eldest son John L50. To three daughters, Anne, Susan, Olive L100 each. Provision in case Anne married without approval of brothers and sisters. To eight sons and daughters, L10 each. To wives of my two sons John and King. To two sons of my sons John and King and to my other four grandchildren, by John and King. To brother Thomas. To widow Best. Owes his son Harman Atwood several sums of money, who is to pay L1100 in part of legacies of my will to be taken out of residue of estate which is bequeathed to him. Son King Atwood, executor. Son John the elder. brother Thomas and son John the younger, overseers.

Proved by Joan, relict of deceased.

(A settlement of descent had been made with the elder John, the legal heir-at-law, so that Harman the fourth son,, and a large creditor of his father, should inherit. This son Harman was born 1608 and died at Sanderstead 1676).

Mr. John Atwood's Will.

I, John Atwood, gentleman, this 20th of October, 1643, make this, my last will and testament. For my brethren, God has blessed them that they may be as well to give to me as I to them and, for their children, greate and smale, young and old, male and female, which were born before the date of these p'sents, twelve pence apiece, if demanded. And, for my little kinsman, Wm. Crowe, and my brother and sister Lee, and their two children, Ann and Mary, I leave them to the will of my wife to deal with them as shall seem good to her, and do therefore ordain my loving wife Anne Atwood to be my sole executrix to whom I will and bequeath all the rest of my estate, my debts being first paid and the paying my debts and legacies mentioned, etc.

Inventory was made Feb. 27, 1643-4, L186 14s.

Mrs. Anne Atwood afterward left her estate to her nephew, William Crowe. I suspect a large debt to John Crowe, presumably brother of Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Atwood and father of William. John Crowe of Mattschese, Yarmouth, Mass., took oath of allegiance, Dec. 18, 1637; and Fidelity, Jan. 7, 1738; Magistrate, 1640; had son William, said to be identical with this nephew of Anne Atwood. See Chancery Bill, 1624, mentioning John Crowe as financial backer of Mr. John Atwood.

From Public Record Office, London

Charles Iw. 15—33. Wood alias Atwood Vs. Atwood. Feb. 1, 1631.

Humbly complayning, your orator, John Wood, alias Attwood, of the City of London, leather seller, that whereas Nicholas Wood, alias Attwood, late of Sanderstead cum Longhurst, County Surrey, deceased, father to your orator, was siezed of lands, etc., in Sanderstead, and did, about 28 Elizabeth (1586), convey one parcel of lands called Mancocke and another parcel lying by Parkland, in the bottom towards Comes Wood Head, and a parcel lying by Mitheley, Great Burye, called Opeley, and one close lying at Ledowne, and one parcel abutting upon the house of Henrie Best, all which lands, the said Nicholas Wood alias Atwood, did convey for the use of Oliphe, his wife, for her life, and for the use of Ritchard Wood alias Attwood, his youngest sonne, and after the death of the said Nicholas and Ritchard, the said Oliphe, about 1603, also died; after whose death, the lands descended unto your orator, as youngest sonne of the said Nicholas. But now Harman Wood, alias Attwood, being the eldest son of your orator's father, and lord of the said manor of Sanderstead cum Longhurst, hath entered the said premises and pretends to disenherit your orator of the same.

ANSWER of Harman Atwood, Gent., Says bill of complaint is devised by the complainant without just cause and denies that he combined with Thomas Collett, the steward of said manor, concerning any controversy and says the complainant has no right or title to said premises. He doth confess that he hath a copy of a Court Roll, dated 37 Henry 8 (1546-7) which proves that Nicholas Wood was the heir, that Thomas Wood, a younger son, had certain manor lands settled on him by his father, John Wood, and that on the death of said Thomas, Nicholas Wood was possessed of said lands, according to the custom of said manor.

Note. The above is merely an abstract, made for genealogical purposes, hence does not always conform to exact wording of the original. It seems clear that the leather seller was never meant by Nicholas to inherit these lands, but thence comes our traditions of disinheritance, etc. As (Sanderstead manor) was confiscated a few years earlier, yet John and Nicholas were left undisturbed in possession of lands bought by Peter in 1346, a Court Roll was necessary to avoid confusion as to titles of the two lands called Sanderstead Manor, one owned by the Greshams and one by the Wood-Atwoods.

OLIFF E. BUCK of Gray's Inn, Gent., Vs. Harman Attwood, John Atwood Thomas Atwood, Susan Urmston.

Complains that John Buck, his father, on May 10, 9 James 1, (1612). became bound to Harman Attwood, his son-in-law (meaning step son) in the sum of L300, which John Buck satisfied in his life time in money or securities and said John Buck died before the bond was returned to him; had made plaintiff, then being very young and ignorant of the affair, the executor of his will 12 James, (1614); calls Harman a very cunning man, who deluded plaintiff into paying money over again, and failed to deliver the bond or pay the money, wrongfully received. Also Harman Attwood hath kept in his possession certain deeds of property belonging to John Buck situated at Charing Cross held by lease from the Governor of Bethlehem Hospital. Ownsted Attwood son of Harman, mentioned Harman as also taking books by several authors, and a clock from plaintiff, which he failed to return.

(Answer not found attached).

Oliffe Buck, of Gray's Inn, Gent., Vs. Harman Attwood and John Attwood, Gent., 29 April, 1624, plaintiff recites that about eight or nine years since, plaintiff became bound for debts of John Attwood, amounting to L500, which said Attwood defaulted when due; plaintiff also bound to Robert Cole for L200 on same account, John Attwood became decayed in estate was sued and cast into prison. Plaintiff alleges that John feloniously conveyed his property to his brother Harman to escape payment of debts. John Buck, father of plaintiff and Metcalf Allington, mentioned in pleading. Harman Attwood, then and yet dwelleth in the country of Sanderstill, Defendant admits debt to Robert Cole, James Bunce, JOHN CROWE, Wm. Friend and Elizabeth Broune, widow, upon long time accommodation. General denial of their allegations and says they conspired to cheat plaintiff.

Note. "Oliver" Buck was son of Olive (Harman-Atwood) Buck, by her third husband, John Buck, and, hence, half brother to those he sued in these two cases. This John would be our Mr. John Atwood, of Plymouth, uncle of Harman of Boston, and brother of John, the leather seller, who was father of Harman of Boston.

Harman Line

Joseph Atwood, great grandson of Harman of Boston, had married Sarah Chresdee, a reputed English heiress, who fled to escape a suitor approved by her parents, but not by herself. A little after the French and Indian War Joseph visited England, perhaps to see about his wife's inheritance, perhaps because of the hope of securing Sanderstead Manor for the American line, for the last male Atwood of the Surrey line, John Atwood, died unmarried in 1761. He probably got neither fortune but it is related that he brought back from Sanderstead a parchment genealogy which showed that Harman of Boston was son of John, the son of Nicholas. This parchment is lost but older members of his branch told Charles Atwood, who collected the data for "The Atwood Family," published 1888, what they recalled and that this Harman came to America. No English book shows so much, but perhaps Joseph and the then owner of Sanderstead used family papers, now lost (or not found by us), and this parchment was made at that time. At any rate, I have no doubt as to the line of descent, though I have many more copies of original records than were known to Charles Atwood.

John Atwood, born 1582, was a leather seller. Thomas Buttolph brought Harman to Boston in his service, 1642, Buttolph being a glover and leather dresser. Harman became a cordwainer, or maker of leather goods, mostly footwear. In 1643, Harman was witness of a deed at Plymouth, F. Billington to John Atwood, (his uncle, bapt. Johanies, while John, 1582, was bapt. Johanem.)

We are unable, after thorough search to find in Somerset House, the probate of John, b. 1582, and it seems fairly possible that his estate, entirely personal, was settled up by Harman and that he took their shares to his brothers John, Stephen and Henry, for each of these seems to have had some small wealth. (John Wood came in the service of Rev. Joseph Hull, sailed Mch. 20, 1635, with John aged 20; settled Weymouth. Unless this John can be otherwise placed, he may well be John Wood alias Atwood of Plymouth, 1636).

Harman was admitted to be townsman of Boston, Dec. 26, 1642. In 1644 was member of Ye Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company; admitted to church, Feb. 26, 1644 and became free-man in 1645. Married Aug. 14, 1646; Ann Copp. dau. William Copp (d. 1669) and Judith (d. Mch. 25, 1670, age 67 stone of Copp's Hill, "Goodeth"). Copp, cordwainer, left bequests to grandchildren, John and Sarah Atwood.

Harman d. June 2, 1651 and estate was admitted to probate Oct. 8, same year, Ann Atwood, Adm. Estate amounted to L34.03.00. Ann m. 2d Thomas Saxton and sold Harman's house in 1657; d. 1659. Children:

H2. Sarah, bapt. May 6, 1650; lived to be at least 15, but not traced.

H1. John, b. Aug. 31, 1647, d. Aug. 26, 1714; first wife Sarah; 2d m. Oct. 29, 1690, Mary (Long) Smith; she d. Mch. 18, 1729, age 68; dau. Zachariah Long (1630-1688), son of Robert and Elizabeth; and Sarah Tidd (1639-1674), dau. Lieut. Joshua (1607-1679) and wife Sarah. Of the first wife of John Atwood, nothing is known, but there seems no doubt this Sarah was wife of this John; he would hardly have remained single until the age of 53, with all his activities.

John Atwood was adm. to 2d church in 1675; bought house on "Middle St." Boston, 1681; Deacon, 1693; Lieut, Artillery Co., 1695, and appears on records as Captain; sold property in Snow Lane. 1703; he and Mary have stones on Copp's Hill.

He left a long and carefully drawn will, estate going to wife Mary during life, but property so she could, in her judgment, allow shares to any child that married; but, as often happens in such careful instruments, full of lawyer's jargon, at her death estate went "to my children then surviving." Hence, if the Atwood parent of any grandchild died before the death of the widow Mary, that grandchild had no right of inheritance.

Children:

H11. John, Aug. 23, 1671; no more.

H12. James, June 3, 1673; married and left son John, 1714-1812; given separately.

H13. Samuel, May 18, 1687; and H14. Sarah, Nov. 11, 1688; no more known.

H15. Mary, bapt. Sept. 6, 1691; m. Dec. 3, 1714, Samson Jarvis; and 2d, before 1729, John Chamberlain.

H16. John, Feb. 16, 1694—March 19, 1779; m. Oct. 28, 1715, Hannah Bond; lived Bradford.

H17. Samuel, 1696.

H18. Ann, June 19, 1697; m. Nov. 26, 1730, Nath Hodgdon.

H19. Elizabeth, 1698.

H1x0. Abigail, — 19, 1699; m. Apr. 4, 1722, John Earle.

H1x1. Joshua, Apr. 10, 1701—Aug. 31, 1770; m. Apr. 18, 1723, Boston, Elizabeth Atkins; lived Boston; stones on Copp's Hill.

On June 24, 1729, Mr. John Atwood of Bradford, shipwright, and Hannah, his wife; Joshua Atwood, shipwright, and Elizabeth, his wife; John Chamberlain, husbandman, and Mary, his wife; Ann Atwood, spinster; and John Earle, blackmaker, and Abigail, his wife; all of Boston, for L625, deeded to Robert Rand of Boston "Massuage" at northerly end of Boston, formerly purchased by Mr. John Atwood of Jonas Clark and wife Susanna; in which the parties are named repeatedly and land described.

I have no date of grandchildren, except by John and Joshua.

H1x1. This Joshua has been confused with Joshua of Falmouth and Provincetown, evidently because the "Atwood Family" did not account for him fully and the other was hard to place. Elizabeth d. Jan. 15, 1768, age 63, "wife to Mr. Joshua Atwood." Children:

1. Mary, Dec. 26, 1723, m. Apr. 30, 1747, Benjamin Varney.

2. Joshua, Jan. 1, 1725. Some Joshua m. 1752, Elizabeth Campbell of Bradford.

3. Elizabeth, 1727, d.

4. John, Apr. 22, 1729; m. Sept. 29, 1750, Ruth Morrison.

5. Elizabeth, Aug. 21, 1731; m. Dec. 28, 1764, Benjamin Varney.

6. Timothy, Feb. 21, 1733.

7. Richard, Oct. 10, 1736.

8. Abigail, Aug. 4, 1743. This branch is carried no further in my records.

H116. Hannah Bond, 1696—May 24, 1780; dau. Joseph Bond, (b. 1653), son of John Bond, d. Dec. 3, 1674, m. Aug. 15, 1649, Hester Blakeley (b. 1630), who m. 2d, 1675, John Williams, Jr. Joseph m. 1679, Sarah, b. 1662 to John Williams (d. Apr. 20, 1698; son of John and Jane), and m. Sept. 9, 1661, Rebecca, b. Mch. 11, 1643, to Anthony Colbie, (d. 1661), and Sarah, (living 1689, as Mrs. Wm. Whitridge).

This John Atwood was "trader," which seems to include money lending, and we find him signing many deeds to estates so scattered in kinship as to show the signer could not be kin to all of them; probably was to none. This has led to trouble in searching the maternal line of John Atwood, 1714-1812, but it seems sure that latter signed no such deeds nor had a snare in any estate of record. About 1724-5, John and Hannah bought the "Lap-ham House" in Groveland, and several children are only on church records there; while W. B. Ladd, pastor there for many years, gave their death dates from his records. Children:

1. John, July 18, 1716, killed at Crown Point 1755-6 in war, by an Indian; m. Mary Wood, who m. 2d, 1758, Lieut. Timothy Burbank; was his widow 1784.

2. William, Feb. 16, 1718, m. Dec. 24, 1739, Abigail Runnels; m. 2d 1743-4, Sarah; and 3d Mch. 29, 1757, Sarah (Hardy) Bradley.

3. Zachariah, Dec. 27, 1720, m. May 7, 1741, Mary Bacon; to Newbury, 1764, where he was living 1771.

4. Joseph, Feb. 21, 1722—Apr. 10, 1799, m. Dec. 15, 1743, Sarah Chresdee, from England.

5. Joshua, Dec. 3, 1723—July 8, 1809; m. 1744, Mehitable Seavey; Bradford to Pelham, N. H., 1770.

6. Mary, May 28, 1725—June 3, 1725.

7. Samuel, bapt. Apr. 30, 1727, m. Oct. 5, 1748, Sarah Rowe; and 2d at Newbury, Aug. 15, 1751, Mary Uren, Rev. Soldier.

8. Hannah, Nov. 11, 1728—Oct. 23, 1777; m. Jan. 12, 1748, William Greenough.

9. David, May 19, 1733—June 13, 1733.

10. Sarah, May 6, 1735—Sept. 4, 1735.

11. Benjamin, bapt. July 13, 1740, d. Sept. 5, 1778, in Rev. army, m. Apr. 31, 1763, Martha Hardy.

H161. John and Mary had:

1. Abigail, June 2, 1742; m. Josiah Bacon; and living 1799.

2. Jesse, Sept. 6, 1748; m. Dec. 31, 1778, Abigail Hardy.

3. Mary, Apr. 15, 1752; living Bradford, 1799, single.

H162. Abigail Runnels d. Oct. 20, 1742, age 20; leaving son William, b. June 20, 1740; Rev. soldier; m. Apr. 2, 1765, Jane Hardy; and, d. Bradford, Feb. 14, 1809; had Hannah, July 11, 1766; and Abigail, Nov. 22, 1768.

8. Charles, May 15, 1803—Feb. 13, 1887; Yale 1821; attorney in Boston; never married; visited Sanderstead and collected much Atwood data, part of which was edited and published, 1888, by his niece, Harriet Atwood Warren. This is a very valuable work, but covers only the families in a single line of descent and leaves many names with but a mention of place and birth. Others, descended from an Atwood of same name as one found here, have frequently guessed at identity, when official records elsewhere prove them poor guessers. This in no way detracts from the value of the book. It has made trouble for as such guesses take on age, others believe them, and descendants resent having the truth told them.

9. Emily (Bates), Mch. 25, 1805—Sept. 3, 1848.

H165x2. Paul Atwood (Joshua, John 3, 2, Harmon) was born same year as Paul of the Stephen Line, but this one never left New Hampshire; d. Oct. 20, 1852, m. H1656. David Gage, and Elizabeth had one son that I have a record of: Jonathan, May 24, 1780—Sept. 11, 1866, who m. May 23, 1807, Sarah Pettingill, Oct. 25, 1785—July 5, 1854.

John (James, John, Harman)

I have collections and manuscripts, 1848 to 1872, and old letters of grandchildren (and their children) of John Atwood who d. Jan. 1, 1812, at Weare, N. H., aged 97 years and 7 months. All state that James 3 Atwood was married that he and wife died, leaving son John, who was reared by his uncle John and aunt Hannah. But every effort to find a record, in town or church, deed or probate, to place James' wife, has proved unavailing. Gilbert Atwood, in 1870, made a thoro search. This winter Luther Atwood went over every source we could think of and only succeeded in proving that every past guess was wrong. Charles Atwood went over same ground and in a letter now in my possession, states that family name and the persistent tradition make this descent very probable. I have done my best to attack it, with no success. Absence of names; Philip, Oliver, Thomas, Elijah, Andrew, Nathaniel, Barnabas, Stephen, etc. among early names, and, the use of names common to Harman Line, is of some value as evidence. Every other known John of anywhere near the right age to be married in 1734, is accounted for. Hence this tradition stands as morally proved.

H121. Abigail Sanders, Feb. 18, 1718-Nov. 9, 1850, m. Jan. 7, 1734-5, John Atwood and was mother of eight of his children. Ancestry:

Avery Sanders, b. Aug. 3, 1683-Nov. 1, 1721, m. Abigail Green, b. Feb. 18, 1678, Salisbury, to Isaac and Mary; James Sanders, b. 1643, and Sarah Page, bpt. July 8, 1651, dau. John Page, d. (Nov. 23, 1687) and Mary Marsh, d. Feb. 15, 1696, dau. George Marsh, d. (July 2, 1647,) and wife Elizabeth. (Hingham Rec.)

John Atwood settled in "Kent Farms," Haverhill, which, when state lines were rectified 1741-1758, John was in Hampstead, N. H. Hence children are of record in both towns with John Jr. in neither. Children:

H1211. Abigail, Aug. 13, 1735 m. Dec. 7, 1754, Alexander Hogg of Starkstown.

H1212. Jonathan, Sept. 29, 1736-Oct. 16, 1816, d. from fall down cellar stairs; soldier F. and I. war, also Rev.; captain; lived Weare, N. H.; m. 1st, Dec. 27, 1758, Elizabeth Plummer; 2d, about 1763, Dorothy (Dolly) Welles.

Journal of the American Medical Association

The first of these is the fact that the medical profession is not a homogeneous body. It is composed of many different groups, each with its own interests and its own methods of procedure. The second is the fact that the medical profession is not a single entity. It is composed of many different groups, each with its own interests and its own methods of procedure. The third is the fact that the medical profession is not a single entity. It is composed of many different groups, each with its own interests and its own methods of procedure.

Descendants of Joseph maintain an Atwood Family Association, meeting annually, often at Rockford, Ill. Senator John sent much of above data, aided by Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Richardson; the Association plans to have a small book of its own again this year.

I have more descendants of Patten, Sr., and if descendants of other branches from Joseph 5 can be learned, expect to issue further pages, 1928-9.

Atwood-Travis

We have found no record of when Daniel and Esther Travis came to Boston or how he got his land in that "town." They had these children who grew up

Sarah, b. about 1649-50, d. latter part of 1689, m. about 1669-70, John Atwood, son of Harman 1.

Esther, b. about 1654 and d. before Nov. 21, 1689, when John Barnard, whom she had married, took a 2d wife.

Hannah, b. Jan. 5, 1661 (1662), m. John Ayre, in Haverhill, Sept. 13, 1683, and, about 1694, removed to Stonington, Ct.

Daniel, Nov. 4, 1664—May 9, 1720, for whom we find no family, and, no wife signed deeds he gave.

(In these days, the new year began Mich. 25, so dates after Jan. 1 to this date are often given as of two succeeding years, the 2d one being as we now count.)

There were several other children of record, their dates helping to fix some not of record.

Daniel Travis, Sr., d. Jan. 19, 1688-9, aged 76; "Jean Treuis, late wife to Daniell Treuis, aged near 100 years, died June ye 30, 1706." (From gravestone records of Copp's Hill, Boston. The letters u and v used to be used opposite our present way, as v and double vv, or w.)

Daniel Travis, made his will Jan. 8, 1688-9, proved Sept. 26, 1689, but no distribution of real estate could be made, as he states he had contracted with his present wife, Jane, on 1st day, 6th mo., 1682, that she was to have life interest.

He left to son Daniel his dwelling house, (afterward deeded to John Barnard, some months before Jane's stone said she died.)

He left house adjoining to three daughters jointly, Sarah, Esther and Hannah.

To son-in-law, John Barnard L5 and to his grandsons John and James Barnard, 20 shillings each.

"To my son-in-law John Atwood his daughter Sarah 20 shillings. ("his" would now be apostrophe and "s").

David Copp, Sr. and son Daniel

Travis, executors.

John Atwood (2) died Aug. 26, 1714 and on Sept. 19, 1714, John and Hannah (Travis) Ayre, of Stonington, Ct., deeded to John Barnard, a half interest in the real estate left by Daniel Travis to his three daughters, reciting that "Sarah, one of the daughters, is long since dead and has no children surviving," therefore that half Sarah's share had accrued to Hannah. (The other half, by same reasoning, belonged to Esther's estate, which John Barnard left to her two sons.)

I think it was in 1925, before any of us had heard of any Atwood-Travis connection, that E. L. Smith of Brookline, in making another search, reported the existence of a quit claim deed by John Atwood, of Pelham, N. H., no wife signing, to a Travis estate in Boston. No date was mentioned and he stated next that the estate was too far back to be a clue to John Atwood's mother. At the same time, we were finding various estates in Essex Co., with John Atwood signing quit claims, so many that we have to conclude that John Atwood of Haverhill, ship wright, was also a money lender. So we dismissed the Travis matter as another of his deals.

But Pelham, N. H.? I see now this could only have been John Atwood of Hampstead, and probably after 1791, staying a time at the home of a daughter.

However, Mr. Smith could not recall the matter, and, a search of the indexes of Suffolk deeds up to 1858, and making an abstract of deeds covering the estate left to the Travis girls, fails to show such a deed.

Read again the traditions on page 4; further details say James Atwood, b. 1670, had left home at an early age, perhaps getting the land left by his grandfather, William Copp, "beyond Braintree;" that he and wife lived and died in a town "near Boston." You will note that John Atwood himself was left no L5, tho Barnard was left L5 by Travis. Also that John Barnard held his deceased wife's estate during his life.

John Atwood as surely had a claim to this estate, after Jane's death, 1706, but had put in no claim up to Aug., 1714, when he died. This argues that his son James was living.

In Dorchester, in 1700, in list of taxpayers, lived one James Atwood. In the adjoining town of Milton, there died, June 21, 1719, a Marcy Atwood.

Fitting it all together: James Atwood probably died in the first half of 1714 and Mercy (Merriam?) went to her people and tho her son John was born about June 1, 1714, the Barnards and Ayres only heard of the death of James, without issue, and as John 2 Atwood had died also, there was slight chance of any claim ever being made and they reasoned any such rights had lapsed.

This James and Mercy do not fit any other place. While there remains a doubt, I consider the ancestry of John Atwood, 1714-1812, given as James 3, John 2, Harman 1, to be practically correct.

Then the provision in the will of John Atwood 2 was purposely written, because James had right to his mother's estate, but was not "then surviving."

The American Medical Association is a non-profit corporation organized for the purpose of promoting the interests of the medical profession and the public. It was founded in 1847 and has since that time been the leading organization of the medical profession in the United States. The Association is composed of more than 50,000 members, who are physicians, surgeons, dentists, and other medical practitioners. The Association's primary concern is the advancement of the medical profession and the improvement of the medical service to the public. It does this by publishing the Journal of the American Medical Association, which is one of the most important medical journals in the world. The Association also holds annual meetings, publishes a code of ethics, and advocates for the interests of the medical profession in the legislative and executive branches of the government. The Association's efforts have been instrumental in the development of the medical profession and the improvement of the medical service to the public.

The Journal of the American Medical Association is a weekly publication that contains a wide variety of articles on medical topics. The articles are written by leading medical experts and are of high quality. The Journal is published in English and is available to all members of the Association. The Journal's content is organized into several sections, including original articles, reviews, and news. The original articles are the most important part of the Journal and contain the latest research in medicine. The reviews provide a summary of the current state of knowledge in a particular field. The news section contains information about medical events and the activities of the Association. The Journal is a valuable resource for all medical practitioners and is essential reading for anyone interested in the medical profession.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS

In Eng. Hist., p. 5 col. 2, Oliver d. by 1586; Susan b. 1575; Johannes b. 1576. P. 7, col. 1: Parish register of St. Dunstan of the West, London, shows some Harman Attwood, Wintner, was buried 1641, Nov. 3; his widow, Bridget, soon remarried, and, he left five daughters; also James Attwood buried 1648; these must have been cousins in some degree, but not of the family of the leather seller, John.

Page 10, L. P. Atwood m. Blanche Booker and he is of the R. R. Commission, not Commissioner.

Page 7, Atwood-Wadleigh, Catherine Marsh b. 1837, not 1873. William, associate of Luther in business, was his brother and both were sons of Jonathan and Huldah.

Note correct spelling: HARMAN and PATTEN, always.

Philip 1 is also given on page 7, near close of Eng. History.

June 14, 1715, Court of Cambridge records an illegitimate child of Oliver Atwood, of Boston, ferryman, and Sarah Everton; she may have later become his 2nd wife, and "Knower" seems a misreading, in any case.

"P8," Philip Covell is found later in Martha's Vineyard, think children were all girls, but have not items at hand.

THE HISTORY OF THE

The history of the world is a long and complex one, spanning thousands of years and encompassing a vast range of cultures, societies, and events. It is a story of human progress, of the triumphs and failures of our ancestors, and of the challenges we face today. The history of the world is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit and the power of our collective efforts.

S539. John Atwood (Joseph 3, Stephen 2, 1) born Feb. 26, 1726-7, was living 1740, at time of his father's probate, Barnstable. But we do not seem to find him on the Cape.

Capt. John Atwood died in Phillips-ton, Mass., April 3rd, 1800, age 73; descendants of Philip were near, he is not identified as one; their John, born about right time, died in Nelson, N. H., in 1812.

There is difficulty in Identifying all children assigned to (P931) John and Elizabeth, of Templeton—perhaps some really belong to Capt. John, as, "Isaac Atwood, of Templeton," a second soldier of that name enlisting in Warwick.

Phillipston has this data:

Intention, Feb. 25, 1803, John Atwood and Sukey Lane. Intention, Feb. 4, 1799, Abraham H. Knight and Martha Atwood.
